UPDATE

ONTARIO ADVISORY COUNCIL ON WOMEN'S ISSUES

OCTOBER 1985

Tomorrow's Woman: Beyond the Rainbow

Shelly Peterson, wife of Liberal leader David Peterson, and well-known actress, will kick off Tomorrow's Women: Beyond the Rainbow, a youth conference being held in Toronto October 18-20. Ms. Peterson will address the students at an evening reception being held in their honour at City Hall.

Brainchild of Sandra Kerr, Vice-President of the Ontario Advisory Council on Women's Issues, and enthusiastically approved by Council members, the conference celebrates International Youth Year. During these three days, over 500 grade 11 female students from across Ontario will gather at a Toronto high school to hear speakers, attend workshops and exchange ideas on issues of interest to them. Some of the workshops are: When I Grow Up, World of Work, Media and Me, and How will I pay my Chargex.

Last spring, Council approached all Ontario school boards as well as private schools to ask them to send students to the conference. We have had an excellent response with 95% of those contacted sending delegates. A planning committee and youth advisory committee helped to shape the nature of the conference, which will bring some young women to Toronto for the first time.

Ian Scott, Minister Responsible for Women's Issues will speak to the students Saturday evening, just before the rock concert sponsored by Q107 radio station. On Sunday, the students will view the film Speaking Our Peace and Senator Anne Cools will close the conference at noon.

Other co-sponsors of the conference are: Imperial Life, McDonald's, Bonne Bell, Xerox, Federation of Women Teachers of Ontario, Coke, Levis and the City of Toronto. For further information call Lisa Flannery Conference Co-ordinator at 965-5824.

Shelly Peterson kicks off Tomorrow's Women: Beyond The Rainbow, a youth conference presented by Council October 18-20 in Toronto.

Senator Ann Cools will close the conference at noon on Sunday, October 20.

President's Column

October 18 is the anniversary of my first year as your Council President — a busy year, but an enormously rewarding one. Perhaps the most interesting part of my responsibilities has been meeting many of you to discuss ways of solving the issues we're all concerned about — issues that are not just women's issues, but ones affecting everyone in Ontario. Not surprisingly, I've discovered our concerns, for the most part, are shared around the province, but northern Ontario has the added dimension of isolation. An isolation I thought I understood, but had no real comprehension of until I started travelling to communities I had not been previously fortunate in visiting. You've welcomed me with warmth, understanding, gallons of coffee, and fascinating discussions. We've started strategizing at 6:30 a.m. on the way in from the airport; we've regretfully ended dialogues at 3 a.m., only because I had a flight at 7 a.m.

Next month, Sudbury, North Bay, Espanola, Manitoulin Island, Fort Francis, Kitchener, Dryden, Thunder Bay, Kenora, Kingston, Stratford, Windsor and Forest are all in my day-timer so far.

Before my three-year term is up in '87, I hope to have visited every community in Ontario and met all of you.

Sam Ion

New Council Members

In June, two new members were appointed to Council. Judith Hendin is a lawyer who lives in Nepean, Ontario and has a special interest in education issues. A former teacher, she has spoken on various topics ranging from the Family Law Reform Act, to Rights and the Child and she has instructed sessions on Professional Development for Ottawa Separate School Board and Carleton Public School Board in both primary and high school levels. Her other areas of interest and involvement include rural women's issues and family law. Eva Marszewski is a Toronto lawyer in private practice with special emphasis on civil litigation as well as family, municipal and labour law. She has been involved for five years in the direction of several land development projects and was a participant in the Federal Treasury Board Secretariat consultation on affirmative action on behalf of the Canadian Association of Women Executives. In August, she was delighted to announce the birth of her first child, a girl. Judith and Eva take the place of two Council members whose tenure was completed. Bill Kelloway served six years on Council, and Eleanor Ryan served five. We gratefully acknowledge all the hard work and dedication that they put in as Council members representing the women of Ontario.

Staff Changes

At the end of the summer, Lindsay Dubois, Council's research assistant bid us all adieu and went off to New York, where she enters her first year of graduate studies in anthropology at the New School of Social Research. She just can't stay away, however, and she'll be back in October to help at our upcoming Youth Conference.

While the office waved goodbye to Lindsay, we welcomed our new secretary Corrine Cowles. Corrine comes to us from The Hamilton Spectator where she was secretary to the Promotion and Public Relations Manager. We're delighted to have Corinne at Council office and we know her newspaper background will be an asset! Corrine replaces Daphne Hay who worked in the office during the summer and is now in her first year at U of T with a long-term goal of obtaining a law degree.

Council News

Last March, the Ontario Advisory Council held a health conference in Toronto. The proceedings from the Women and Health conference are now available at Council office. In addition, a health brief has been submitted to the Minister of Health, the Minister Responsible for Women's Issues and other relevant ministries. Copies of the proceedings and brief are available in Council's office.

The Ontario Advisory Council's 11th Annual Report is also available in limited supply at Council office.

If you have any historic materials pertaining to the women's movement, and you're not quite sure what to do with them, you might consider submitting them to Council for preservation and storage in our library. And speaking of our library, our new premises include a wonderful large space for a library. Unfortunately, the work involved in properly cataloguing materials is a long slow process, and so our library is not yet available for public use. We hope to have the material assembled within the next few months. Watch this space for further information.

Education Wife Assault

Education Wife Assault is a non-profit community organization providing education on wife abuse. They have a brochure available listing the sources of help, information and shelters for assaulted women throughout Ontario plus an extensive publications list. For further information, contact Education Wife Assault, 427 Bloor St. W., Toronto, M5S 1X7, (416) 968-3422.

Municipal Election Guide:

We highlighted the issues in the provincial election with A Women's Guide to the 1985 Ontario Election and now we're ready to tackle the municipal elections. Council has prepared a Municipal Election Guide which is being mailed to our French and English mailing list. This pamphlet identifies issues regarding school boards and municipalities. The issues are written in question form and can be used as a guide to determine where your local candidates stand on issues important to women. And sadly, in municipal elections, only half of those eligible to vote do so. And yet municipal governments spend our tax dollars to make decisions affecting the quality of our life on a day-to-day basis. On November 12, vote for the candidate of your choice. Otherwise, your views won't be heard!

The Municipal Election Guide is available by either phoning 416-965-8232 or writing us at the following address: Ontario Advisory Council on Women's Issues, 800 Bay Street, 5th floor, Toronto, M7A 1N3. You may also personally pick up your guide by coming to the office Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Regional Consultations: St. Catharines

In May, Council held a two-day consultation with the various women's groups in St. Catharines. Council members visited high schools where they conducted workshops with the students on women's issues. Students were very interested in what Council members had to say, and many members reported that some very lively debates took place in the various classrooms! Other members visited local women's centres. The following day, various groups made presentations to Council, among them The Lincoln Women Teachers' Association, University Women's Club of St. Catharines, St. Catharines Local Council of Women, and Women in Niagara.

The next regional consultation will be held in Windsor November 22 and 23. Windsor Council member Sandra Manzig is currently working on the agenda and once again, women's groups from Windsor region will be addressing Council on issues of concern to women in this area.

Meeting with the Treasurer

During the summer, the Honourable Robert Nixon, Treasurer of Ontario, requested Council bring together a committee representing various women's groups. He was interested in hearing the views of these groups prior to formulating the provincial budget. Accordingly, on September 5th, an ad-hoc committee consisting of representatives from 12 women's groups met with the Treasurer to offer him recommendations on priority issues they believe must be considered in the Liberal's first provincial budget.

Minister interested in Childcare issue

While the Minister expressed interest in all the issues raised by the ad-hoc committee, he paid particular attention to the section on childcare. Mr. Nixon expressed surprise at the low salaries childcare workers earn (average annual salary $14,000). He announced the Queen's Park Childcare Centre had been given a $400,000 grant and vowed to visit the centre when it opens in January. When questioned about the generous size of the grant, he explained the formula for arriving at this figure could be used by any corporation interested in setting up a childcare centre. In general, Mr. Nixon had many questions and comments regarding the childcare issue.

New Pension legislation expected

The pensions issue was also discussed. The committee would like to see new laws introduced to ensure all Ontario women receive adequate pensions. The committee presented three recommendations, one of which called for the expansion and improvement of the Canada Pension Plan in the private sector such as inflation protection, earlier vesting and coverage of part-time employees. The Minister informed the committee new pension legislation was expected to be introduced later this fall. He surprised the committee by expressing a personal belief that pensions ought to be indexed, but of course, could not promise legislation would reflect this.

Equal value

Equal value was also discussed with the committee recommending increased funding for the implementation and enforcement of equal pay for work of equal value in both the public and private sectors. The Minister replied that the Government plans to introduce a bill dealing with the civil service and said the proposed Green Paper would address the broader public sector.

The Legislature opens October 15, and it is expected a budget will be handed down a short time later. Only then will we see whether the Government has succeeded in turning theoretical statements into hard legislation.

The Green Paper is Coming The Green Paper is Coming !!!

Soon after the House sits on October 15th, the Government will introduce a Green Paper on Equal Pay for Work of Equal Value. Women have been waiting a long time for legislated equal value, and now, at last, it appears the Government is taking a slow step forward!

We know the Government will hold consultations on the Green Paper, but the format has not yet been publicized. The Equal Pay Coalition has offered to act as a clearinghouse for briefs being submitted by groups to the Government on the Green Paper.

Highlights of the Green Paper (which incidentally is a working paper, and does not represent legislation) almost certainly will be published in the newspapers across the province. Once it has been released to the press, the Green Paper will be available to groups for study. To obtain your copy, contact the Attorney General's office, 18th floor, 18 King St. East, Toronto, Ontario M5C 1C5 (416) 965-1664 or you could try the Ontario Government Book store, 880 Bay St., Toronto, (416) 965-2054.

We hope all women's groups will grab this opportunity to have input on the equal pay for equal value issue. If you wish to participate, send your brief or your response to the Equal Pay Coalition, 43 Madison Ave., Toronto, M5R 2S2. This will help women's groups know what each of us is saying and perhaps together, finally, we can bring equality to the workplace!

Intercede Needs Your Help

Intercede needs your help to bring domestic workers out of the dark ages. They are circulating an open letter to the Minister of Labour William Wrye expressing alarm about the lack of protection for live-in domestic workers under Ontario labour laws. They are pressing for the Minister of Labour to immediately include live-in domestics under the hours of work and overtime provisions of the Employment Standards Act and to recognize domestic workers' right to unionize. If you would like to sign the petition, or for further information, call Intercede, 58 Cecil Street, Toronto (416) 977-4432.

UPDATE

The Council is an advisory body to the Ontario Government on all matters pertaining to women. Established at armslength from the Government, it is in the unique position of being the ONLY official advisory body on women's issues. This means that the Government has made a commitment to listen to its views and recommendations, and this unique relationship allows the Council to effectively challenge Government's direction and policies.

There are 16 members, including a President, all of whom are appointed by Cabinet on a part-time basis for three-year terms. Members come from around the Province, and for the most part, do not represent organizations or groups.

The Council attempts to bring a balance of views of women from across the Province to the attention of the Government. Its unique relationship with the Government gives it a direct channel to the ears of the decision-makers of Ontario.
